The Second Pedagogical Workshop on

Teaching English in Primary Schools: Training Future Teachers from Theory to Practice

18/12/2023

The Argument

Recently the ability to communicate in English is a vital skill that opens doors to countless opportunities. English in the Algerian primary school was introduced as a result of the recent political and social changes in addition to the current need of English as a key factor for economic growth and scientific advancement and research. Therefore, equipping primary school teachers with the knowledge and the skills to effectively teach English is a crucial step towards empowering the next generation.

The Aim of this workshop is to build a strong theoretical foundation in language education for future teachers. By providing a comprehensive understanding of language acquisition theories, pedagogical approaches and effective classroom management strategies, we ensure that our future teachers are well-equipped to create a positive and impactful learning environment. Moving beyond theory, our workshop places a strong emphasis on practical application and experiential learning. Through hands-on activities, lesson planning sessions and interactive exercises, we empower future teachers to transform their theoretical knowledge into effective teaching practices, fostering a dynamic and engaging English language curriculum.

This workshop is a step towards realizing the full potential of English education in Algeria. By combining theoretical knowledge with practical skills, we strive to make English teaching in primary level more promising, effective and successful. Consequently, we tend to empower our future teachers to create a generation that is equipped with linguistic and cognitive tools necessary for global communication.
